Cuesta College Instructor's Work Commissioned for New County Government Center

Cuesta College Fine Arts Instructor Marian Galczenski's 24-panel painting installation, "County," was selected and commissioned as one of the new public art works to adorn the interior of the San Luis Obispo New County Government Center.

"County" is a 36" by 290" painting installation that features 24 distinct panels in square and circular shapes patterned after the rectilinear and curvilinear forms of architecture found in the building. The images of "County" portray the culture, history, environment, topography, wildlife, agriculture and life in San Luis Obispo County.

Galczenski submitted a proposal for her painting and was commissioned to complete the work for the interior of the building. The oil and acrylic paintings on birch wood panels took Galczenski nine months to complete.

Works for the interior of the building have been completed and installed in the New County Government Center located on the corner of Santa Rosa Street and Monterey Street.
