Registration Open for Annual Writers' Conference at Cuesta College

Registration is now open for the 24th annual Central Coast Writers' Conference at Cuesta College.

The conference will feature 28 workshops in all genres of writing and publishing, including fiction, nonfiction, children's literature, memoirs, mystery, screenwriting, freelancing, poetry, getting published and enhancing creativity.

The keynote speaker will be New York Times bestselling author Bob Mayer. Mayer is the author of 38 books published under his own name and the pen name Robert Doherty. He has more than three million books in print including his latest novel, "Agnes and the Hitman," co-authored with Jennifer Crusie. In addition to working as an accomplished author, Mayer also teaches novel writing and team-building.

The Central Coast Writers' Conference will be held on September 26-27 at Cuesta College. The conference includes a choice of four workshops, keynote speaker, Friday evening reception, Saturday morning breakfast, writing competition, manuscript critique and Table Talks with authors, publishers and agents. Participants can register for the entire conference or per session. A special rate is offered for young writers under the age of 21. To register or for more information, visit communityprograms.net or call 546-3132.
